Did His Best.

If a servant obeys orders as far as he can and does his work correctly as far as he goes, what more can be expected? And yet the result is not always satisfactory, even to reasonable employers. Here is a story of a lady who owns a large and handsome dog, of which she is very fond, and perhaps a little proud. The other day she sent him out to the stable to be weighed, confiding the operation to a new servant, who looked upon the powerful animal with considerable awe. The man was gone a surprisingly long time, but at last reappeared and announced that the dog weighed 100 pounds.

"One hundred pounds!" repeated the lady. "Are you sure you weighed him right? He can't weigh more than that."

"Oh, yes, ma'am, sure an' I weighed him right, but I couldn't get him all the way down my fence."—Strand Magazine.

Amateur Essays.

Amateur of extravagant education, there is no more utter waste, whether in the school or those of higher class, than essay writing by children. A poultry paper quotes a little boy's effort on that subject. "Geese is a nasty animal, for they will jump up your back and beat you with their feathers," writes this budding literary genius, and "the turkeys is a large kind of hen." This may be an extreme instance, but it furnishes the text for an essay on "geese" of quite another kind. —London Sketch.

A well selected text is half of the sermon. Given a good text and a preacher who is in earnest, and the result is sure to be good. The text of this article is a plain simple statement that proves itself in the reader's own mind without argument. The text is "Good health is better than great riches."

Without health nothing really matters very much. A hacking cough takes all the beauty out of a landscape or a sunset. Erysipelas or eczema will spoil the enjoyment of a beautiful painting. The biggest bank account in the world won't pay a man for his health, but a very small amount of money will make him healthy and keep him healthy.

Most all bodily troubles start in the digestive or respiratory organs. It is here that improper living first makes an opening for disease. The development differs as constitutions and temperaments differ. The causes are almost identical. To get at the root of the matter is simple enough if you start right.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a medicine for the whole body. It works through the digestive organs on all the others. It cures the first thing it comes to and after that, the next. It puts health in place of disease in the stomach, and from the vantage ground thus gained, it reaches every fiber of the body and drives disease before it—indigestion, liver troubles, kidney complaint, biliousness, skin and scalp diseases, salt-rheum, tetter, eczema, and all the troubles caused by impure blood.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

SUCCESS ACHIEVED BY A YOUNG SONG WRITER AND COMPOSER.

Advantages of Spinster Homes—Defeated by the Women—Woman Protecting Women—Taxation and the Suffrage—A Place For Dress Waists.

Myra Argur Chisholm, the young composer, who has within a few months sprung into such prominence, is a Chicago girl, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Chisholm. The father, James Chisholm, one of the oldest of Chicago journalists, has held positions on all of the leading papers of the city. He is a graceful writer, with strong poetic and artistic instincts.

A story is told which indicates his tendencies. He had been induced to join a party of gentlemen and ladies to witness the races. The grand stand was crowded and enthusiastic, but Chisholm was watching the clouds, which had a beautiful appearance. When the horses were coming home, the crowd cheered and cheered, but he was still sky gazing. His wife, much excited over the race, grasped his arm and said, "Wasn't it grand, Jim?" "Yes," he replied calmly, "the glinting of the sun on those great rolling masses of white and black clouds makes the most gorgeous of spectacles. Gorgeous rather than grand."

Mrs. Chisholm has written much for the press and was considered one of the best art critics in Chicago.

The only daughter, Myra, has had no special musical training, and therefore is not a composer "to the manner born." Her tunes and melodies are hummed, and then played on the piano, and changed until they suit her fancy. Then she plays the air, and it is taken down by a musical shorthand and written out by an educated musician for the printer.

At an early age Myra rhymed. When about 7 years of age, she printed out in a little album something which ran along like prose, but on reading was found to have both measure and rhyme. Her first printed poem appeared in a Hinsdale paper and was copied into the Chicago Evening Journal and many eastern papers.

Miss Chisholm is slight in figure, her hair is light brown, with a glint of gold, and inclined to fall upon her high, broad forehead in little rings. Her eyes are blue and large and inclined to seriousness rather than to mirth. She is retiring in manner and simple in dress, but always attracts notice, particularly at the Woman's Press League of Chicago, which she attends in company with her mother. Her ambition now tends toward a volume of stories and verses for children, but her eyes are in musical composition, while her friends hope that she may have a thorough musical education. —Banner of Gold.

Spinster Homes.

A hundred causes have been at work to make homes possible. First of all there had to come among both men and women complete submission to the fact that all the women of one generation could not marry, there not being men enough to go round, and polygamy having ceased to exist as a fashionable institution. Then there had to follow a conviction, which took a long time to grow, that those women who seemed to have been left quite out in the cold when marriages were settled might have staid out of their free wills, and that therefore they were not to be judged as those who had been tried and found wanting. But the most potent of all causes lay in new conceptions of what individuality might mean—that individuality which is irrespective of privilege and independent of tie and condition—with a growing belief in the necessity for the development of this individuality and the right of its free expression. Through all the upheavals of homes and societies which have sometimes alarmed us as a recognition of what this involves for women, as for men, has been slowly born. The fact of her being married or unmarried weighs little if a woman be equipped in every way for the part she is to play in life.

In a home of her own the spinster gains both the table and the fireside. When presiding over the one or welcoming to the other, she acquires as hostess a certain dignity and sureness of position which once were supposed to belong only to her married sisters. She becomes, in fact, the dispenser, and in giving she gets her own independence, for there is more in giving, even in the way of hospitality, than we altogether know.

For the working spinster, too, there is another invaluable gain—she gets a place in which to conceal her make-shifts and poverties, all her ups and downs of fortune.

Your possessions, too, will grow. It is a law of life that never fails, that to the things that one has others will always be added. Your possessions will grow also by the hundred unexpected and never failing kindnesses of friends—those kindnesses which are constant factors in all success, and which help to make the richness of all lives. In a material way you will be better off, though you may have spent more money and expended more strength. Your place in life, too, will be better established. You will have a greater number of ties, as well as a recognized position. You will have had greater opportunities for helping other people and find yourself in every way better equipped for all emergencies. —Harper's Bazar.

Defeated by the Women.

B. L. Short, city clerk of Kansas City, Kan., who was a candidate before the Republican primary election for mayor of that city, was beaten in the race on account of a love affair.

Mr. Short has been city clerk for six years and is known as a good official. Many expected him to win easily.

But he didn't. The women beat him. They voted almost solidly against him, and they did it because of his fickleness in love.

The "crime" for which the women voted against Short was a unique one. It seems that he had been attentive to Miss Sadie Parsons for over 12 years and had been engaged to marry her. According to her story, they were to have been married last fall. Mr. Short called on her one evening, and they talked over their engagement and had the date fixed. The second evening thereafter Mr. Short was quietly married to Mrs. Grace Firestone, who had been divorced from her first husband.

The first intimation Miss Parsons received of her lover's unfaithfulness was from a published notice of the marriage. She was almost beside herself with grief at Short's unfaithfulness and told her story without reluctance.

It proved splendid campaign material for Mr. Short's opponents. The women began talking of it as soon as Short's candidacy was mentioned and did not let up until the polls closed. It proved particularly effective among 120 of Miss Parsons' teacher friends, and it is said they voted solidly against Short. Thirty-five more votes would have elected Short if he could have secured them.

Never in the history of Kansas City, Kan., have the women shown so much interest in an election as they did in this one. The whole feminine population was aroused. Many women went about in hacks and buggies and handed other women to the polls and urged them not to vote for Short.

The defeat of Short opens up a new feature in the women's suffrage female voting scheme. It drags a new element into the political arena and adds more uncertainty to the already doubtful career of the man in politics. If every candidate is opposed by his slighted sweetheart, the path of the would be officeholder will be a thorny one, indeed, and, as one of the men said yesterday: "It all comes of trusting the women with something that few men can handle properly—the ballot. We'll regret the day we gave it to 'em more than once." —Kansas City Car. Chicago Inter Ocean.

Large Shop.

Among the stories told of early Californian days is one which gives a remarkable picture of a blacksmith shop.

In the days before roads had been laid out and sawmills built a blacksmith settled on one of the river bars, and, erecting a forge of clay and stones, set the anvil on a big tree stump, which he had sawed low for that purpose, and did a thriving business sharpening the picks and drills of the miners.

He was himself a miner and did his blacksmithing almost entirely at night. Not knowing when his claim might fail or be disputed and be forced to move on to another place, he did not think it worth his while to build a regular shop.

One day two of the miners left the bar for a town some 20 miles away. As they came into the main trail leading to the blacksmith's haunt they met a man leading a horse which had lost a shoe and was stumbling badly.

"Strangers," said the man in a weary tone, "can you tell me how far it is to the blacksmith's shop? My horse has lost a shoe, and he's mighty lame."

"Well, now," said one of the miners, leaning forward and smiling in a most encouraging way. "don't you be for giving up. You're in the blacksmith's shop now, though I'm bound to tell you it's about three miles before you'll strike the anvil." —Youth's Companion.

HOBBS

Friends Offer Absolute Proof of the Merits of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills.

We Publish in this Article What W. Pinniger and a Well Known Physician Has To Say Regarding this Great Remedy.

The verdict of the people must at all times be considered final. The old saying is a true one, and what ever the popular verdict may be in the test now being made of Dr. Hobbs' discovery for the "cure" of Kidney diseases, it must necessarily be considered final. No appeal will be taken, and no subterfuge resorted to. Each and every claim made by Dr. Hobbs must be fully substantiated.

There are to-day in Reno and vicinity alone hundreds of people who say that Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills are a grand medicine. They have good reasons for saying this, having themselves been either greatly benefited or cured by their use.

From a Popular Druggist.

Hobbs Remedy Co.

Gentlemen—Every day brings endless inquiries from our customers as to the merits of your Sparagus Kidney Pills. Being familiar with the component parts of this medicine, we never have any hesitancy in recommending Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills as it is our belief that it would be an utter impossibility to combine in any preparation more virtue than what the formula shows they contain.

Yours truly,

W. Pinniger.

Milford, Del., Jan. 28, 1896.

Hobbs Remedy Co., Chicago.

Gentlemen—I feel that I would not be doing my duty to my fellow men if I should not give my testimony as to the curative qualities of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills in the following case, as any one in Milford can testify. No one expected him to live. He was the sickest man I ever saw to die. After an experience of thirty six years in the practice of medicine, I can say that his case was most miraculous. You are at liberty to refer to me in regard to this case, and I will gladly answer any questions desired.

About a year ago I was called to see J. F. Kimbal, who had been troubled with kidney diseases for five years. Before he came into my hands to be treated he had been under the care of several physicians. They all pronounced his disease as incurable. On examination, I found the following symptoms to be present: Urine high color and scanty, a brick dust deposit on standing. By an analysis 40 per cent of albumen and full of tube cast, showing a destruction of the kidneys going on. Circulation affected, palpitation of the heart, swelling and puffiness under the eyes; also a swelling around the ankles, hands and abdomen. Pain of great severity in the small of the back, cramps in the legs, specks or moles before the eyes, ringing noises in the head, furrowed tongue, bowels constipated, loss of appetite, sick stomach and indigestion. All of the above symptoms showing Bright's Disease in its very worst form. I told him that I considered his case hopeless, and that he was beyond the aid of medicine. His friends and neighbors were daily expecting his death. His life became a burden to him. At this time, a neighbor reading your advertisement of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills persuaded him to try them. From the use of the first box he began to improve. It would consume time needlessly to follow the whole course of his convalescence. After using six boxes of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills he was entirely cured, and is to-day a well and sound man, and is able to follow his vocation, without any return of his trouble.

I am a regular graduate of thirty-six years' experience in the practice of medicine. This man's cure was little short of a miracle. After demonstrating the curative power of your pills in two cases, I shall prescribe in all kidney and urinary troubles. I am independent enough to use any remedy that will relieve and benefit my patients. I am willing to acknowledge and commend thus frankly the value of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills.

ROBERT FRANK, M. D.

How timely the advice of Mr. Kimbal's neighbor. If you are sick, take heed of your kidneys.

A TARIFF COMMISSION.

For years many strong arguments have been advanced in favor of a permanent tariff commission for the purpose of reporting from year to year to Congress such changes in tariff schedules as experience proved to be necessary for the public good. The California Populists in State convention declared for such a commission, but the Republicans ridiculed the idea. Now no less a personage than Senator Cullom of Illinois places himself on record in favor of such a commission. He candidly admits that we cannot continue indefinitely as we have been doing in dealing with the tariff because the business of the country will not tolerate it. It is probable that Senator Cullom will offer an amendment to the tariff bill now before the Senate to provide for such a commission.

As it now is the business of the country is deranged every time there is a change in the business complexion of Congress because of changes in tariff schedules. The prices of many articles of consumption are advanced or reduced, according to the prospects of a high or low tariff. Trusts make millions by those changes and the public is rarely benefited. What the people want is a tariff that will produce sufficient revenue for the support of the Government honestly and economically administered, not a tariff that will enrich a few at the expense of the many. The income tax was one of the fairest methods ever devised to procure revenue for the Government, as only those who had incomes were required to contribute to the public fund, but as one of the Justices of the Supreme Court changed his opinion as to the constitutionality of the tax, it cannot be collected. The next best thing is a tariff which will produce revenue for the support of the Government without enriching trusts at the expense of the general public. A commission permanently established could afford Congress intelligent information and suggestions as to the best methods of accomplishing this purpose and the people would have assurance no very radical changes would be made in tariff schedules at any session of Congress, whatever the political complexion of the majority of the members might be.

IS IT GOOD POLICY?

The City Council at its meeting last night out of the street service of the Electric Light Company as far as the town is concerned. The reason given is that the present cost of $216 per month is more than the town can afford to pay considering the conditions of the funds on hand and the prospective income. It is reported that $100 per month was offered for the service, but was declined.

While it is to be admitted that the street lights are in a measure a luxury they have almost become a necessity and to discontinue them will not only be an inconvenience but a decided backward step, if, as was claimed when the incorporation movement was advocated, that progression and improvement was the intention of the change in city management. Of course, if the revenue from city sources will not permit of an extravagance of this character and the provisions of the bill will not allow the Board of Commissioners to contract bills beyond the income, they have no discretion, but must act within the limit provided.

Whether it is good policy just at this time, however, to discontinue one of the most useful public benefits as well as one of the best advertisements the town has of its claims as a city, is a question that deserves the most careful consideration, and as an economical step its results may be penny wise and pound foolish.

A SALT TRUST.

The news comes from Pomeroy, Ohio, that the numerous companies in that vicinity have organized a trust which will increase the price of salt 50 cents per barrel. The trust announces to the public that it will increase the working force by over 1,000 men as the increased price will enable the companies comprising the trust to operate more extensively.

This is a new feature and if it proves effective it will show that trusts are not as bad as they are represented to be. If advancing the price of salt increases the consumption of the articles and enables the trust to employ a thousand more men than the several companies which form the trust have heretofore employed, then trusts are public benefactors and the Republicans are right in upholding them. Farmers should avail themselves of the information given by the salt trust to benefit themselves and give employment to more people. Instead of raising hay, for instance, on individual account they should form an association, advance the price of hay, raise more of it and thus give employment to more hands, that is if they believe that adding a dollar or two per ton to the price of hay will increase its consumption.

Trusts always benefit the workingman if you take the word of those in the trust for it, but somehow other people can't see it in that light.

Elko contemplates celebrating Independence day. A citizens' meeting has been called and it is proposed to "whoop it up" on the glorious Fourth.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

It is reported that Turkey's terms of peace with Greece include the payment of an indemnity of $15,000,000, a rearrangement of the Greek frontier, the annulling of treaties favoring Greece, the cession of the Greek fleet to Turkey and the settlement of the Cretan question.

The Bell Telephone Company has won the case brought against it by the United States to annul the last Berliner patent. This decision has the effect of continuing the control of the telephone by the Bell Company for seventeen years from the date of the last patent, granted in 1891.

The Turkish commander at Janina telegraphs that the Greek forces at Kamarita have been routed by three battalions of Turkish troops who occupied Kamarita. Later—Greeks gathered in the church on the heights above the city and fired upon the Turks, who eventually took the church by assault, killing many Greeks and capturing some prisoners. The remainder of the Greeks retired to the bridge of Argos Georgio, where they made a determined stand, but were finally routed by the Turks.

A Well-Known Young Man.

Mr. Ed. Lachman is one of the best known young men in Reno. The following statement will explain itself:

"Reno, September 4, 1896.
"On Saturday last, while wheeling down the steep grade beyond the Mound House, I had a fall which severely sprained the muscles and tendons about my right hip and so bruised my knee that it was swollen, discolored and painful to the touch. That evening I procured a bottle of Trib and applied it. The next day I could walk and ride easily, and after using Trib twice a day for four consecutive days I was completely cured. I never before knew the value of a good liniment. I shall not be without a bottle of Trib hereafter. Use my name if you see fit. Trib is a good article, the knowledge of which I am willing to aid in spreading."
EDMUND D. LACHMAN.

The above was written to the Trib Company eight months ago. Mr. Lachman says that the cure has proved permanent, and that many of his acquaintances have to his knowledge used Trib with advantage.

A Wonderful Blind Pianist.

Signor Arturo Nuttini is a blind pianist who is not a freak, but a player of remarkable ability. He was born in Florence 23 years ago and became totally blind in his first year, but he now plays the most difficult rhapsodies of Liszt, sonatas of Beethoven and other classical compositions with wonderful technique and expression. While Fa-derewski and his contemporaries play Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 6," one of the most difficult compositions, in a transparent key, Signor Nuttini plays it in the original key—six sharps. The way Signor Nuttini learns his piece is curious. He has a little machine, consisting of a flat metal board, in which there are tiny grooves, over which he fits a sheet of thick paper, and with the aid of a little ruler and a pen, he writes all his music in a peculiar manner on his interpreter reads it for him. He has to copy, and often after a long time, the composition he can play it. The following is a translation of the story of the pianist.—San Francisco Chronicle.

WOMEN ADOPT A BOY.

Victor Thompson's Mother Now Is the Whole Thursday Club of Chicago.

Little Victor Thompson has recently acquired 24 adoptive mothers over and above the one which the average small boy loves and disobeys. He is the adoptive child of the Thursday club of the South Side, and it has been suggested that his name be changed to V. Thompson Thursday. This is probably the first case in which a child has ever been legally adopted by a secular society, but he is the "club child," watched over and supported by it, and the members are as responsible for his upbringing as were his own parents.

The Thursday is a charitable club organized to help children. While on a visit to the Waifs' mission one of the members saw Victor. His bright eyes and clever replies to her questions aroused her interest. He said he was not happy in the mission, and after the clubwoman had investigated his family and found that he was the child of a respectable widow who took him to a meeting of the club. It was proposed that he become the ward of the club and be educated and cared for at its expense. The motion was carried, and papers of adoption were made out in the usual form and signed by the secretary. He was placed immediately in the Illinois Training school at Glenwood, where he now is. Like other mothers, the club thinks its child is brighter and better than the children of other people, and it looks forward to the time when the president of the United States will be Victor Thursday, the child of poor but honest parents and the adoptive son of the Thursday club.

Victor is only 8 years old, yet he can read and write and has chosen his profession. He says that he will be a lawyer. He recently wrote a letter to his aggregation of mothers, addressing it to the president, Miss Mabel Dole of 3124 Pacific avenue. In it he told of his life at the training school and ended by saying: "I want to thank the Thursday club for adopting me. I am very much obliged to the young ladies, and I am going to get my lessons and be a good boy, so they will be proud of their little boy." The matron added a postscript, saying that the wording and thoughts in the letter were all his own.—Chicago Record.

Just a Difference in the Time.

The composer Henry Smart played an organ in a London church, and his recital after church excited much attention, but one morning after a selection from one of Mozart's masses a church warden came into the organ loft and begged to inform Mr. Smart that they had decided that they could not have such jiggly stuff played in their church.

"Very well, sir," was the answer. "It shall be altered."

On the next Sunday dirgelike sounds proceeded from the organ, and the church warden congratulated the player on the solemn and elevating effect of the music.

"I am glad you like it," answered Mr. Smart. "Doubtless if I played it a little quicker you will see the reason it affected you." And, snitting the action to the word, the popular strains of "Jump, Jim Crow," resounded from the organ.

After this Henry Smart played what he liked.—Pearson's Weekly.

NEVADA MANIPULATORS AT WASHINGTON.

Geo. F. Turrittin and Col. H. B. Maxon in Touch with Mark Hanna.

Congressman Newlands has secured for William Anderson of Eureka, a pension of $6 per month, with back pay for about $250.

Geo. F. Turrittin, who has been for five weeks confined to his bed with a complication of stomach trouble and muscular rheumatism, left for the West this morning, accompanied by Colonel Maxon. Mr. Turrittin has been and still is a very sick man and had to be carried to the train. He has had the attendance of three of the best doctors in Washington, besides the attendance of his nephew and a Mr. Marshall, one time private Secretary of Senator Fair. Turrittin was already to start for the West when he was taken with chills and fever and gradually grew worse. While his leaving Washington in his present dangerous condition was attended with many dangers, yet he feels certain the first breath of Western air will fill him with a new vigor and rapidly build him up. He will stop at some springs near Salt Lake City. While the Nevada colony in Washington is small, yet they gave him every attention and served to brighten him up with hope. George has suffered, and his friends will hardly recognize him when he arrives in Nevada. Few men in Nevada are so genial and hearty in their friendship, and even in his staunchest partisanship he never lets his views transgress on his personal friendships.

Colonel Maxon, who came East to participate in the inaugural ceremonies, has spent his time between Washington and New York. While Maxon may not be a Mark Hanna in Republican leadership in Nevada, yet he stands about as close to Hanna and McKinley in Washington as any of the local statesmen in the country. He can certainly afford the Republicans of Nevada pointers when it comes to politics in Washington. He is probably the most unique Republican in Nevada, for since coming to Washington he has been offered two fine positions in the Land Office, one the chief clerkship and the other chief of the survey division. Both positions he declined. His friends and they are powerful ones here, asked him to make a fight for Assistant Commissioner of the Land Office, but the Colonel swears he will have none of Washington's aristocracy, but prefers private citizenship in Nevada and believes that the future of Nevada holds more for any man than can be gained from official position in Washington. Had he entered the fight, he would have won it, for I doubt if there be a man in Nevada who could have commanded stronger Republican support in the East than Maxon.

Maxon was cordially received at the White House on several occasions and was not unfrequently seen strolling in the Arlington corridors with his nobles Mark Hanna.

Maxon would get along in Washington all right. About a year ago he came to Washington on business with the land office. He wished to see Senator Jones, whose headquarters are at Chamberlain's. Now, Chamberlain's is dead swell, and if you enter the place with a modest air of humility and tremblingly present your card, the chances are you will be informed that your Senator is out. It not unfrequently happens that innocent constituents wear their lives away in trying to gain the admittance desired at Chamberlain's.

Maxon put in an appearance and handed in his card. Among the virtues of the Colonel, excessive modesty will never defeat his success. He presented his card and was told that Senator Jones was out. Maxon drew himself up and politely informed the clerk he wanted to see Jones and ordered him to send in the card. The card was sent and presently returned with the information that the Senator was out. Now, the chances are the card went out of sight simply and was returned.

"You're a d—d liar," the Colonel retorted. "I know he is in. I am Colonel Maxon of Nevada," and he looked both handsome and fierce.

The clerk was inclined to resent this familiarity and commenced to bristle up in a feeble way. The Colonel looked at him and roared out: "You bald-headed, knock-kneed Eastern dude, send that card up to Senator Jones or I'll take your scalp right here."

The clerk all but fainted. The card went up, the Senator came down, and they both drove off in a carriage, leaving the clerk with both eyes wide open, but scared almost lifeless.

Speaking seriously, it would have been a good thing for Nevada and the West if Maxon had been appointed. One cannot but admire his energy and activity. If he has enemies it is because he is aggressive, and a man without enemies is no man at all.

Washington, D. C., May 6, 1897.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

M. G. Caillonette, Druggist, Beaverville, Ill., says: To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail, and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use, and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial bottle at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store.

TIRED OF LIFE.

W. McCrimmon of Washoe City Takes a Dose of Morphine With Fatal Effect.

Coroner Peers was notified Sunday morning that his services were required at Washoe City to hold an inquest into the circumstances and cause of death of J. W. McCrimmon, a young man of less than 20 years of age who had died Saturday night suddenly from the effects of morphine poisoning. Mr. Peers immediately left for Washoe and upon his arrival there summoned a jury and proceeded with the investigation.

It was found that young McCrimmon had visited Carson on that day, and when leaving his relatives seemed greatly depressed, bidding them good bye and while his actions impressed the family as being peculiar his intent of his relatives suspected his intent to end his life. He had worked for Geo. Smith of Washoe for eight months and had always been an exemplary employee and well thought of by all who knew him. He roomed with another employee of Mr. Smith's and after attending to a number of duties on Saturday evening the two men went to their room. After reaching there, young McCrimmon told his companion that there was one more matter he wanted to write about and returned to the store. Shortly after he came into his room and retired. Later his companion was aroused by McCrimmon's peculiar breathing and he called to him, but received no reply. He immediately arose and lighted the lamp and tried to arouse the young man, but without success and he then went for aid, but by the time he returned McCrimmon was dead.

It is supposed that when he went back into the store he wrote his last letter and took the morphine, as the bottle containing the drug was found as was also the following letter:

"WASHOE, May 8, 1897."

"To whom it may concern:—I die of my own free will as I have nothing else to live for. I want home to-day to see the folks for the last time. I hope my debts will be paid from this. What is on earth for me? Nothing! but sorrow and grief and pain, so now I bid you all farewell. I am as ever, Yours truly,

"J. W. McCrimmon."

The Coroner's Jury found that deceased had died from an overdose of morphine, taken with suicidal intent. The remains were taken to Carson for burial.

Board of City Commissioners.

The City Council met last evening to consider city business. A full Board was present excepting Councilman Wells. After the reading and approval of the minutes of last meeting, the regular order of business was taken up.

An ordinance was passed allowing the City Clerk compensation at $20 per month.

A resolution was adopted cutting off fifteen electric lights, also a resolution stopping the sprinkling of the streets where it was done at the city's expense.

A communication was received from the Board of County Commissioners, refusing to allow the county prisoners to work on the streets, the Board claiming that the prisoners were solely under the charge of the Sheriff.

The Council received a communication from the Board of Commissioners notifying it that the sum of $5,807.09 had been transferred from the Reno incorporate fund to the city of Reno fund.

A communication from Chairman Beck of the Board of Commissioners, notifying the Council that matters heretofore presented to the Town Board of Trustees had been referred to the Council, and that various transfers of authority, funds, etc., had been duly made, also expressing the hope that the two Boards would act in harmony and for the best interests of the taxpayers, was read and the same placed on file.

The remainder of the session was occupied in the consideration of monthly bills.

Nearly a Third of a Century.

Thirty-three years ago yesterday Judge Webster crossed the Missouri river on his way to Nevada. He has lived nearly a third of a century in Washoe county and his children were born and have grown to man and womanhood here and two or three little tots call him grandpa. The years, however, rest lightly on the Judge and although he is fast approaching the allotted time awarded to men, namely, three score years and ten, his robust figure, springy walk and hearty good nature indicates the man of middle age with few cares and a liberal allowance of the good things of this world.

Cure For Headache.

As a remedy for all forms of headache, Electric Bitters has proved to be the very best. It effects a permanent cure and the most dreaded habitual sick headaches yield to its influence. We urge all who are afflicted to procure a bottle, and give this remedy a fair trial. In cases of habitual constipation Electric Bitters cures by giving the needed tone to the bowels, and few cases long resist the use of this medicine. Try it once. Large bottles only fifty cents at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store.

The Reno Dramatic Club presented the "Ensign" Saturday evening at Piper's Opera House, Virginia, to an appreciative audience and were duly complimented. The Cadet orchestra and band as well as the Glee Club also received appropriate recognition. The Chronicle speaks favorably of the whole combination.

Celebrated for its great leavening strength and healthfulness. Assures the food against all forms of adulteration common to the cheap brands.

District Court.

The following calendar was called in the District Court yesterday and the following cases set for trial:

Henry Orr vs. Margaret McCarraan, before a jury, June 2d.

State vs. Spiro Francovich, set for June 2d.

Wm. Webster vs. Wm. Thompson, set for May 31st, before a jury.

Foulke's Air Motor Co. vs. J. H. Thies, a jury was waived and the case set for hearing on July 5th.

Max Hoels vs. Becker Browning Company, a jury was waived and the case set for June 14th.

Office Supply Co. vs. Washoe County demurer submitted on brief. Ten days was given plaintiff to file brief and the defendant will have ten days to answer.

In the matter of the estate of Maria D. Williams, deceased, final report and petition for distribution was heard and decree granted according to prayer of petitioner.

In the matter of the estate of M. D. Foley, deceased, petition for decision whether certain property is separate or community property, hearing set for June 4, 1897.

Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank of Sacramento vs. D. Powell, et al, was set for trial on July 5th.

The Pabst Agency.

Messrs. Muller & Stumpf, the local agents for the Pabst Company, have from comparatively a small beginning grown to be one of the solid business houses of Reno. Both gentlemen came here strangers and as is usually the case were met with many discouragements, but they have gradually enlarged their business until they are filling orders in all of the neighboring towns and reaching out into Carson and Mason Valley as well as into the northern country.

The Pabst beer is becoming a popular beverage and the Pabst malt extract as a healthful and invigorating tonic for invalids is rapidly gaining a reputation throughout the State.

The general agent of the company will arrive here from Milwaukee in a few days and intends to look over the ground with a view of establishing a large central depot at this point, the facilities of shipment, ice, etc., being of especial advantage to the company. If it is decided to carry this project out, grounds and buildings especially adapted to the business will be provided. Muller & Stumpf will receive a carload of the beer the last of the week and orders in any quantity will receive prompt attention.

A Serious Fall.

While Mrs. T. A. Read of Franktown was in the Nevada Hardware and Supply Company's Store making some purchases yesterday afternoon she started to cross from one compartment to another and did not notice a cellarway, the door of which was open at the time. She stepped into the opening, but before she could save herself was pitched headlong down the cellar steps, she is an elderly lady and for a time it was thought she was badly injured, but Dr. Thoms, who was immediately called, found no serious injury except the serious shock to the lady's nerves. She was conveyed to her daughter's (Mrs. F. L. Gould) house and at last report she was resting easily. Her escape from serious injury or even death was miraculous.

Somewhat Premature.

Louis Berier was perfectly thunderstruck in seeing in last night's Gazette that he was the father of another son. He says that the affairs of this world are not a continuous round of pleasure, but when his family is increased by a newspaper without his knowledge, and Allen Bragg takes advantage of the situation to "rush the growler" he thinks it is about time to remonstrate. He says he admires a live paper, but to publish births before the child is born and obituaries before the party dies is a little too speedy to suit him.

A New Occupation.
According to a writer in the Denver Daily Post, a woman has developed a new occupation in connection with the Colorado legislature. She says:
I have been interested in the workings of the legislature for some time, and have been making a rather good thing out of it. I don't like a career of lobbying, but I have been clearing up more money this way than any of the people who are employed to push or pull bills. She is well posted on the daily mixed political situation and is a pretty rolling but not a politician. She gave the residence and the political center of every member of the legislature a copy of all bills introduced, and keeps track of them. She knows to what committee bills are referred, and the measures have fallen and can give the personnel of the committee at a moment's notice, and has a list of the members that will listen to her for or against a measure. That's the kind of information that is in demand, and wherever a man calls and commences to make inquiries about a measure the little bundle of information possessed by the woman in question is placed at his disposal—for a consideration.

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.
Good Manners.
The average young man scoffs a little at a chap who is noticeable for his good manners. Many a healthy boy thinks a certain roughness in speech or manner is a sign of vigor and manliness in contrast to the weak and womanly ways of one who is always bowing and scraping to the people whom he meets. There could not be a greater mistake, because while an overdisplay of politeness is a sign of hypocritical natural courtesy will never prevent a boy or man to behave in any way except in the thoughtful, quiet, refined way which belongs to good manners. A rough, honest chap is better than a slippery, well-mannered, dishonest one, to be sure. That perhaps is the reason for so much of this deliberately rough, dirty some of us adopt. But this we let pass, that courteous behavior is wrong or to be avoided. It means that courteous behavior is sometimes used as a cloak for other motives.
There is no reason, therefore, why the average young man in school or college or business, in his daily occupation, or when he comes in contact with women or men, girls or boys, should not make it a point to be reserved, self-contained, tolerant and observant of the little rules which every one knows by heart and which go to make his company and companionship valuable to others.—Harper's Round Table.
Too Bad.
Woe, woe Lucy, the dear little goose, Tried a trick on April fool's day, A purse—how funny—without any money And tamptingly down by the way. But she took her new purse, in default of a worse, With its clasp so shiny and gay.
And somebody got it and put it in his pocket, And who was fool then, pray? —Elizabeth B. Thomas in Youth's Companion.
New Grandfather Lighted His Candle.
Nowadays when you want a light in the evening all you have to do is to turn a little peg, and the electric lamp begins to glow. Gas and oil lamps are only a little more trouble. But it was very different 100 years ago. The lighting of a candle was a complicated process and took a good deal of time and skill. First, there was the tinderbox. Probably you have heard of a house burning "like tinder," but do you know what tinder really is? Our grandfathers made it by lighting a piece of cotton cloth at the fireplace and allowing it to char. This was placed in a shallow, round tin box, something like the box now used for shoe blocking. Matches were made by splitting thin pieces of wood into many pieces and tying them together in round bundles. Then when the tinderbox, the old name for a match, was broken up and melted both ends of these bundles of sticks were dipped into it. Thus old-fashioned matches were burned at both ends. In lighting a lamp or candle the tinderbox was opened, then the flint and steel struck together, dropping a spark on the tinder, into which one end of a match was put as quickly as possible and the candle lighted. This done, the cover was shut down on the tinderbox to smother the lighted tinder and to save it. The match was also extinguished at once, to use the good end next time. And by the time the candle was lighted supper was ready. Weren't those slow old days?—Chicago Record.
Working and Waiting.
If you have any waiting to do, work while you wait. Working is the only thing that will make time fly. Watching the clock is the surest way to make a moment an hour, and working will make an hour seem like a moment.—Brooklyn Eagle.
